TO ORGANIZE GYM CLASSES FOR BOYS HERE

Service Clubs Lease Hotel Gettysburg Gym For Physical Education.

PRE-HI SCHOOL BOYS ELIGIBLE

To afford boys of pre-high school age in Gettysburg an opportunity to develop themselves physically, to acquire habits of cleanliness, sportsmanship and leadership and to give them suitable recreation after school hours, committees of the Rotary and Lions' clubs here have agreed to sponsor physical education classes for boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades here.

The boys will meet for the first time Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the gymnasium of the Hotel Gettysburg for organization of the physical education classes in charge of Joseph Donat, a student at the Lutheran theological seminary.

In order to enroll in the classes, which will meet three or four times a week after school at the hotel gymnasium, boys are asked to sign the coupon which appears in an advertisement in today's issue of The Gettysburg Times.

Open to Grade Boys
The physical training classes will be open to all young boys irrespective of creed or color, and the committees hope parents will cooperate to the fullest in their efforts to give this class of young manhood this opportunity for recreation. Saturday afternoon's meeting of the boys will be primarily for enrollment and organization.

The classes will then get under way next week, meeting for an hour or two after school three or four times each week for the next two months. Basketball teams and physical education classes will be organized and every boy will be given an opportunity to participate to the fullest in every activity planned for the group.

Enrollment in the gym classes will be free for the boys and they will not be called upon to spend money for athletic clothing or equipment, all of which will be furnished by the two service clubs. The boys will be asked to furnish their own towels for use after shower baths with which the hotel gymnasium is equipped.

The joint committee from the two service clubs has procured the services of Mr. Donat to conduct the classes for the first two months. The director is said by members of the committee to be thoroughly trained and experienced for the position, and capable of helping the boys organize and of directing their activities.

While the committee has announced that for the remainder of the winter the young boys will devote their time to simple athletic exercises, basketball and other indoor games, members expressed the hope that eventually the classes may develop into an active and flourishing boys' club, Boy Scout or some other boys' organization.

Fine Opportunity
Members of the committee point out that boys of the pre-high school age in Gettysburg have no opportunity for directed play, to learn the fundamentals of sportsmanship and leadership in athletics, or to develop themselves physically in a systematic manner. After high school entrance, such opportunities are afforded both boys and girls.

In an effort to interest the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce in the boys' activities, the joint committee has announced a joint dinner-meeting of the Rotary and Lions' clubs and the Chamber of Commerce membership for February 17 at the Hotel Gettysburg. At this meeting, George H. Hummel, of York, president of the athletic council at Gettysburg college, will be the principal speaker, discussing boys' athletic activities.

Credit for sponsoring athletic activities among young boys of the community is given to C. E. Billheimer, athletic director at Gettysburg college and chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary club. The joint committee from the two service clubs comprises Mr. Billheimer, William A. Miller and A. B. Plank, of the Rotary club, and John W. Brehm, Lloyd C. Keefe and C. Paul Cessna, of the Lions' club. John D. Lippy, president of Rotary, and George L. Taylor, president of Lions, are ex-officio members of the joint committee.

NEW MEMORIAL HIGHWAY HERE GETS PROTEST

Maryland Residents Meet With Senator Goldsborough And Oppose Route.

OTHER TOWNS OPPOSE PLANS

Opposition to the proposed route of the Washington-Lincoln Memorial Boulevard, from Washington to Gettysburg, eliminating Frederick, Rockville, Gaithersburg and Bethesda, was voiced Wednesday by delegations of representative citizens from the four towns at a conference in Washington with Senator Goldsborough and Representative Zihlman.

At the conclusion of the conference Senator Goldsborough said he would introduce a resolution in the Senate protecting the interests of the towns.

Delegation From Frederick
Those in the delegation from Frederick were Holmes D. Baker and Glenn O. Garber, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Joseph H. Apple, president of Hood college; John S. Hershey, rotary club; Richard F. Simmons, Jesse W. Kolb, Francis I. Peck, James W. Donnan and C. Thomas Summers, Lions club; Robert L. Warfield, Clyde M. Roney and Floyd B. Younkens, Automobile Dealers' association; John G. McGrath, president of the Lewistown Citizens' association; Victor Birely, president of the Thurmont Lions club, and J. Ward Kerrigan, president of the Emmitsburg Lions club.

The Frederick delegates joined those from Rockville, Gaithersburg and Bethesda in Washington.

Arguments Presented
Mr. Baker, Dr. Apple and Mr. Donnan were the principal speakers for the Frederick delegation. They pointed out that a route passing through the towns would serve a much larger number of persons along the way, would be more economical, would pass through a more picturesque and historic section and would be the logical course to take.

A route by which the towns might be eliminated was proposed as the outcome of a resolution introduced by Senator Tydings. Business men and civic organizations of Frederick, Rockville, Gaithersburg, Bethesda and other towns in Frederick and Montgomery counties are opposed to any route that would eliminate the towns.

Naval Delegates Hold Friendly Conference Today

London, Jan. 23 (AP).—Meeting in a friendly and helpful atmosphere the delegates to the five-power naval conference outlined their national viewpoints briefly at the first working session today and then resumed their private conversations seeking solution of the various problems before them.

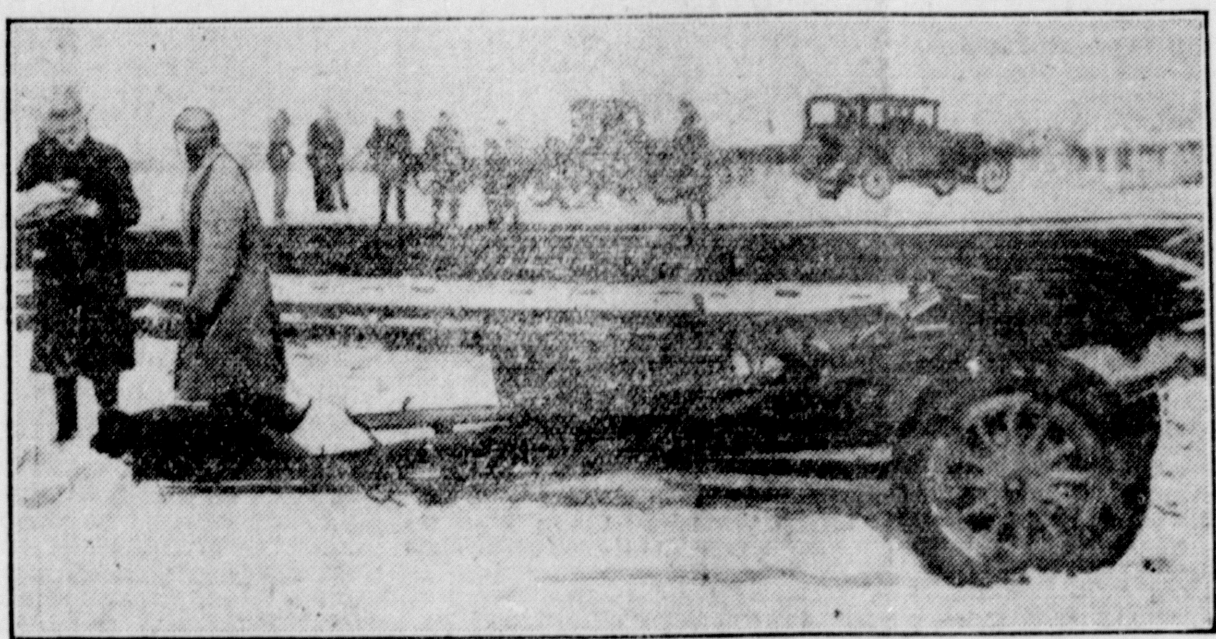

France and Italy shared the spotlight at today's session from which the public was excluded.

The delegates exchanged national viewpoints with the unsettled details of Anglo-American parity and many other vital topics thrust into the background while France again outlined her claim to a greater place in the naval world and Italy repeated her ambition for parity with her French neighbor.

The representatives of all participating governments spoke briefly. Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, said that he would not expand at the present time upon American naval needs as it was well understood that the United States was looking to the conference for as much actual reduction as possible.

TWO WALKING RULES ISSUED

Pedestrians Have Right of Way With Traffic Lights In Their Favor.

Attention is called by the Keystone Automobile club to two decisions of unusual importance recently handed down by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, clarifying the respective rights of pedestrians and motorists.

In one, the court ruled that a pedestrian crossing a street with the traffic light in his favor has a right to assume that vehicles will obey the signal. In the other, pedestrians are warned that if they cross between intersections "they are charged with a high duty to observe traffic on the street crossed and on the intersecting street, when the crossing is made close to such intersection."

Respecting the duty of motorists at street crossings, the supreme court ruled:

Exercise Care
"When the driver of a car approaches a regular crossing at an intersecting street, he is bound to exercise the greatest care for pedestrians thereon, and the car must be operated so as to stop on the shortest possible notice."

"But what would be negligence at a crossing is not necessarily negligence between crossings; there a vehicle need not be under control, drivers are not required to sound their horns, and an automobile has the right of way."

"A pedestrian on a regular crossing, in view of a driver, has rights superior to those of the approaching car; when he crosses between the regular crossings, the superior right of travel is with the automobile."

Drivers are cautioned by the court to observe care in turning from one street into another.

"The driver of the car," says the decision, "must make the turn with due regard not only to pedestrians who may be on the regular crossings, but also to any person or vehicle lawfully in the highway immediately beyond and close to the crossing. An automobile cannot dash around a corner at an undue rate of speed and crash into vehicles or pedestrians without subjecting the driver to liability."

W. MD. ROAD IS MERGER TOPIC

Philadelphia Board of Trade Opposes Adoption By The Wabash Railroad.

The importance of the Western Maryland railroad as the key to the railroad consolidation plans was stressed again on Monday by the Philadelphia Board of Trade, which is planning to fight the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan to have the Wabash take over the Western Maryland.

The Philadelphia Board of Trade, through its president, Philip Godley, declared the commission has totally ignored Philadelphia's business interests in its consolidation plans, and that that city's business would be drained to serve Baltimore and New York.

Under the plan of the Philadelphia Board of Trade, the Reading railroad would be set up as a huge trunk line system rooted in Philadelphia. The Western Maryland and Pittsburgh and West Virginia would give the Reading a new entry into the middle west. Godley suggested that in view of these factors Philadelphia propose the Reading as the basis upon which to construct a trunk line system "affording a short, low-grade service between the western gateways and the Atlantic seaboard" and this would bring the Western Maryland into such a system.

Godley suggests that the Reading, even as now set up, is competent to function as a real terminal and trunk line system. He proposes that the following lines be allocated to the Reading to accomplish this purpose.

The Erie, New York, Susquehanna and Western, Lehigh and New England, Western Maryland, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Nickel Plate, Chicago, Atchafalaya and Southern and perhaps the Canadian National in the state of Michigan, plus trackage over the Canadian National between Niagara short lines in Western Pennsylvania, Falls and Port Huron, also several together with the Bessemer and Lake and Union railroads.

All of which now make it apparent, with the Baltimore and Ohio having been ordered to divest itself of Western Maryland stock, that whichever way the cat jumps, the Western Maryland is in the center of any and all consolidation plans.

LEASE PEN-MAR PARK FOR YEAR

Col. John J. Gibbons and Mrs. Elsie Libby, both of Baltimore, and William H. Bowers, of Waynesboro, have leased Pen Mar Park for 1930 from the Western Maryland Railroad, it was announced.

Shortly after the close of Pen Mar Park last year, Western Maryland Railroad officials made the announcement that they would not reopen the park in 1930 and that they were ready to lease it.

Substantiating their announcement came the removal of train tracks leading into the park.

Further developments brought the leasing of the park to the three people who for many years have been instrumental in making the park a success. Mr. Bowers and Mrs. Libby operate amusements while Colonel Gibbons manages the Pen Mar Dining Room and Buena Vista Springs Hotel, besides other concessions at the park.

TWO STUDENTS ARRESTED FOR MISDEMEANOR

Room Is Searched For Quarantine Card Removed From Local Residence.

MANY SIGNS ARE FOUND BY POLICE

James Cherry and Dominick Spina, both of Newark, New Jersey, and both freshmen at Gettysburg college, were arrested on a charge of malicious mischief, Wednesday evening, in connection with the theft of numerous signs with which the students had their room at the home of Prof. John A. Sheffer, Barlow street, profusely decorated.

Trooper John Hobbs and Officer Paul B. Shearer, who arrested the pair, both of Italian parentage, went to the Sheffer home about 5:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, armed with a warrant to search the students' room for a scarlet fever quarantine tag which was taken from the home of Charles Bowers, Stevens street, within an hour after the premises were placarded by Health Officer Erie R. Deardorff.

Other Signs Found
Although the officers failed to find the quarantine tag, they found many signs of all sizes and descriptions and Trooper Hobbs arrested them on charges of malicious mischief. The room was so full of signs, the officers said, that some of the windows were covered. One of the largest was that of the Hotel Governor, Harrisburg, giving mileage from the place the sign was located to Harrisburg. Another sign showed the direction to Grantham college, near Harrisburg.

Cherry and Spina are suspected of having taken the scarlet fever placard from the Bowers home the same night the place was quarantined. They were recognized coming away from the Bowers home with a yellow card, by a woman. Health Officer Deardorff was notified that the card was removed, and placed a new sign on the premises.

The health officer swore out the search warrant before John C. Shearer.

Hearing Saturday
After Cherry and Spina were arrested they were released on their own recognizance to appear at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Shearer Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The officers pointed out that there is a severe penalty for removing a quarantine placard, but since the scarlet fever tag, removed from the Bowers home, was not found in the students' room they will not be prosecuted for this misdemeanor.

Several months ago, state police searched students' rooms at Gettysburg academy for signs taken in and around Gettysburg. A large number of signs and placards were found, but no prosecutions were made although the students were required to return the signs to the owners and bring back a written receipt.

Gettysburg high school snapped out of its slump Wednesday night and handed York high a terrific lacing on the local floor, 50-18. With its victory the high team entered into undisputed possession of third place in the league race.

"Shorty" Warren and Ivan Kitzmiller shook off their scoring slump and accounted for 39 points. Warren was high man with 22, while Kitzmiller collected 17.

Coach Martin's aggregation showed marked improvement over their playing of last week and coasted into an easy victory. The entire team passed and shot in fine fashion. Their guarding was of the best, only seven goals being recorded against them.

Bolton opened the scoring with a foul toss. Warren followed with a goal. Myers sunk a nice shot and Warren duplicated. From then on, the Maroons led and were never in danger. The first period ended 14-3.

York played better ball in the second quarter but were no match with the fast flying Maroons. Led by Captain Warren the Martintmen sent their score soaring to hold a 22-7 advantage at half time.

In the third period, Kitzmiller began to find the range of the basket, having been held scoreless from the field in the first half. The team passed and shot in a bewildering fashion, amassing a 36-13 lead at the end of the third quarter.

York's defense was torn in the final period while the visitors could not get past the careful guarding Martintmen.

The Maroons played sterling ball. Warren and Kitzmiller took care of the offense while Welker, Pitzer and Wermick did some first class guarding and floor work. Myers was the only York boy who could find the basket, the speedy captain accounting for half his team's points.

It was the preliminary game that provided the thrills for the evening. The York scrubs won 27-25 but only after one of its hardest tussles. Three extra periods were required before a winner was determined. The score was deadlocked most of the entire game. Klinefelter and Fetron were the luminaries.

Parole For Cook, Explorer Jailed In 1923, Recommended

Davenport, Kan., Jan. 23 (AP)—Although official announcement was lacking, it was learned on good authority that a parole had been recommended for Dr. Frederick Cook, Arctic explorer and oil promoter, who has spent nearly five years in Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary.

Favorable action by the United States Attorney-General on the application of the 65-year-old prisoner for release had been forecast previously because of his excellent prison record and the fact that officials connected with the prosecution offered no objection to clemency.

Given Nearly 15 Years
His case was taken up after he had served the minimum time necessary to become eligible for parole. He was received at the prison April 6, 1923, to serve a sentence of fourteen years and nine months imprisonment for using the mails to defraud in connection with his oil-promotion ventures.

The failing health of the prisoner was understood to have been considered by the Parole Board in reaching its decision. Others convicted in connection with the oil-promotion schemes which brought Dr. Cook's prison term have been freed.

COLLEGE CO-ED IS KIDNAPPED

Smith College Student Held Captive For Two Hours By Three Abductors.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 23 (AP).

—Virtually snatched from the campus, a Smith college girl, whose name was being carefully shielded, was kidnapped Tuesday night, she declared, and held captive nearly two hours by two men and woman. William Allan Neilson, president of the college, announced the kidnapping Wednesday, "to allay rumors which I understand are in circulation."

Pulled Into Automobile

The girl was stopped on a street near the campus and asked the direction to the president's house. As she was replying she was pulled into an automobile, blindfolded, and driven to a house which she thought to be a considerable distance from the town. There she was held prisoner in a room while her three captors ate in another part of the house.

Later, she argued at length with them, warning them, she said, that they could not kidnap a college girl without an immediate alarm being sounded. In this way, she said, she dissuaded them from holding her and one of the men drove her back to the vicinity of the college. She immediately reported the matter to college authorities, but no report was made to the local police.

Two Others Disappeared

Two Smith students disappeared during the last five years. The body of one, Frances St. John Smith, was recovered from the Connecticut river, and the other, Alice Corbett, never was heard from.

TWO OVERCOME IN Y. W. BLAZE

Lancaster, Jan. 23 (AP)—Two women were overcome by smoke and one was injured in trying to escape from the building when fire broke out in the local Y. W. C. A. today and did damage estimated at $30,000.

Mrs. Emily Gable, 65, Allentown, and Miss Florence Singer, who registered as being from Kentucky, were found unconscious on the third floor and were carried to safety by Albert Curtis, 20, a negro boy in the association's cafeteria.

Miss Marguerite Gable, 23, who is employed at night and who was asleep when the fire was discovered, attempted to break a fire escape door on the fourth floor and suffered cuts on the arm. She fell to the floor, unconscious, but her plight had been witnessed by Rudolph Miller, a plumber at work on an adjoining roof. Miller dropped to the Y. W. C. A. roof and made his way to the fire escape. He broke open the door and carried the girl to safety.

The blaze started in the cellar and spread up a dumb-waiter shaft to the top floors where it did most of the damage.

AMUSEMENTS

They include: "Can You Read in My Eyes," "Would I Love to Love You," "Knocking the Blues Away," "What is Life without Love," "Rhythm of the Tambourine," and "Does an Elephant Love Peanuts."

GAME FEEDING URGED IN STATE

Heavy Fall of Snow And Lack Of Food Place Wild Game In Dire Straits.

With the occurrence of the unusually heavy snowfall over the week-end the game of the state is going to suffer considerably if food is not placed for them at once. The entire force of the state game commission is already on the job but they cannot hope to cope with the situation without the help of many others. Therefore, sportsmen, scouts, school children and others interested in wild life protection are urged to appeal to in this hour of need. Leo Bushman, Adams county game warden, will furnish food for distribution.

The best all-round food which can be placed to good advantage is corn on the cob, since it can be stuck on sharpened sticks, or branches of small trees and shrubs so that it will extend above the snow. Promiscuous scattering of loose grain over the snow, while it may help some, is not a good method. It cannot be found as quickly and there is always the possibility of its being covered up before it is found. If loose grain is used the snow should be cleared away from the base of some tree or shrub and the grain scattered there. Nuts can also be placed in clear areas at the base of trees. These are always acceptable to the squirrels.

In order that the different species can more readily locate the food that is placed for them some attention should be given to the place which they are known to frequent most. Food for grouse, for instance, should be placed usual under cover formed by clumps of evergreen trees, thickets or laurel rhododendron or weeds, dense patches of scrub oak, or grape vines; bob-whites are usually fed in the open along fence rows; wild turkeys in the deep woods along spring runs.

If any improvised shelter is constructed both ends should be left open in order that the birds or animals may escape in case they are attacked by any predators.

REVISED RULES TO AID OUTBOARD RACING SPOR

Sarasota, Fla. (AP)—Changes in outboard speedboat racing rule promise to open a new era for the sport by separating amateurs and professional participants. Amateurs have found the going tough because they have been forced to compete with drivers backed by manufacturers. The new rules, effective this winter, include weight restriction on racing hulls, revised regulator for motors, elimination of free-for-all contests, and establishment of classes for "family runabout" boats.

A QUESTION of HONOR

by Ruth Cross

SYNOPSIS: Between the love of Scott Glenn, young engineer, and the millions of Leon Morse, railroad financier, Anne Wilnot feels impelled to accept the latter. She is prompted by a sense of obligation to repay her aunt for the fortune invested in her social career. Then fate takes a hand. Anne overhears Morse and Robert Douglas, his aid, planning destruction of Glenn's dam. No longer denying her love for Glenn, she runs to warn him. Dynamite-planting for the dam has revealed a rich lode of gold to Glenn and Sheb. Despite his new found wealth Glenn despairs of winning Anne—then she arrives to tell him of the plot. Happy in the choice she has made, Glenn rushes to the reservoir.

Chapter 22 THE ENEMY STRIKES

Spurred by the knowledge of the menace to all his hopes and ambitions that the irrigation project represented, Glenn hurried along the well worn path toward the tunnel.

His easy, muscular strides that had caused Anne to liken him to a winglike god overtook Sheb who had been sauntering along. In a few words Glenn explained the significance of Anne's warning and they plunged into the subterranean passageway that led to the reservoir.

Their fears were momentarily allayed when an inspection showed nothing suspicious and the watchman said he had noticed nothing out of the ordinary. As they were talking one of the foremen came out of the tunnel and addressed Glenn.

"Every man on the job has quit," he said, "except the night shift in the tunnel there, and they're going to quit as soon as they're paid off in the morning."

Glenn frowned but made no comment. He indicated beats around the wall which Sheb, the watchman and the foreman were to take up, then he walked off quickly in the direction of the tunnel.

Inside the tunnel, the air was unquestionably charged with mutiny. The men who were pushing trucks of earth back and forth eyed Glenn with sullen, lowering hostility. Under the foreman's watchful gaze, they all kept up some pretense of work—making the least possible speed—but the instant his back was turned to speak to Glenn, every pick was dropped, every truck ceased to move. They gathered in little knots, conferring together in low tones.

The foreman explained a little more in detail to Glenn what had happened. All but this night shift had been paid off at six o'clock. They had given no notice then of quitting the job, but later one of that," Glenn agreed. With a swift movement, he drew out his revolver and covered them with it. When he spoke again, his voice was quiet but very earnest. "This tunnel can be finished in 16 hours and the water turned into the reservoir—the only chance I've got to save this reservoir and the millions of dollars that are tied up in it from these devils who are trying to blow it up. Any man that makes another move to quit his job before that time—or to loaf on it—will be shot down like the treacherous scoundrel that he is. Now, get back to your work—I've got something else to do besides talk!"

The men, taken completely off guard and too astonished at first to make even a protest, began now to growl and mumble. They started to argue the case—seemed once on the point of rushing Glenn and throwing him, but his attitude was so resolute that they finally wavered, lost spirit, went back to work—by no means willing, however. Glenn handed his revolver to the foreman, stationed him on guard at the only exit from the tunnel, with orders to shoot if necessary. Then he turned and ran swiftly back toward the dam.

Halfway to the wall, he heard a volley of shots ring out—Sheb's old shotgun! When he came up on the run to the spot from which the shots had apparently been fired, though, Sheb was nowhere to be seen, but the sound of curses and tussling, of something being dragged heavily over the ground, guided him along the wall. There was a sound of something ripping, giving way, falling, another oath from Sheb, then swiftly fleeing footsteps. Another shot rang out and another. Glenn and the other two men who had come up at sound of the shots started in hot pursuit. But it was no use. The prowler, whoever he was, had escaped, darted into some prearranged hiding-place perhaps.

When they came back to the wall after a prolonged and thorough search, Sheb was still standing in the exact spot where they had left him. By the light of the watchman's lantern, they could see him, glumly shaking his head and staring down disgustedly at the remains of an ornate crimson sash which he held in his hands.

Still dolefully shaking his head, he pointed to the place in the sash where his ancient enemy and fellow musician, Tony, had slashed his way to freedom—after being dragged a distance of some dozen feet or more by his picturesque appendage. A few steps away, was a box of dynamite which the wily Mexican had abandoned in his hasty flight—dynamite intended for the dam.

"I might a knowed it," Sheb opined, spitting woe-begonely upon the ground. "I might a knowed it—

Pirates Gamble On Young Rookie

By Jay Vessels

New York (AP)—There's one sun kissed rookie from California who won't have to worry about his big league job this year even though he is a first year man.

His name is Gussie Suhr and his home port is San Francisco. Yes sir, if Gussie gets insomnia it shouldn't be because of worry over his job.

For all he has to do is to get out there when April breezes begin to blow and play his usual game of baseball to be assured of the regular first base position with the Pirates.

You see Suhr's batting and fielding performance with the San Francisco Seals was so convincing to the Pirate scouts that they recommended his purchase at any reasonable sum. Then when the opening came for the Pirates to dispose of Earl Sheely, the regular first baseman, the scouts unhesitatingly assured the Pittsburgh management that Gussie could be depended upon.

This won't be the first time that a bushier has picked up a regular assignment but it will be one of the few times that a recruit shouldered great responsibility.

The statistics on the 1929 coast league season support the flowery reports forwarded by Pirate field men.

Playing his second full year with the Seals, Gussie batted .331 and fielded .989. He was up among the very leaders in batting and showed more than a mere wallop with the willow in checking in with 51 homers, six triples and 62 doubles. He made 299 hits, scored 169 runs and drove in 177 runs.

MAGNETS TELL WHY FAMOUS SPEEDWAY DESTROYS TIRES

Hastily summoned to the Indianapolis speedway when an automobile tire went flat in a recent nonstop speed test after only a few minutes' use, a gang of sixty men with three lengths of rope to which magnets had been attached, discovered the reason why the brick track, in its seventeen and a half years of use, had acquired the reputation of being hard on tires. Popular Science Monthly reports.

Dragged around the two-and-a-half-mile course, the magnets collected enough tacks, small bolts, and steel shavings to fill three straw hats. These articles had settled in the cracks between the bricks.

SSS has meant a new day to many a person

A CLEAR SKIN comes from within

Lack of appetite, loss of strength, skin eruptions, that "tired feeling" and other human ills may be due to a lack of red-cells in your blood.

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"MY despair was so great I could have cried. The good cheer and merry happiness of others only mocked at my condition. I had begun to wonder why life could be so cruel. No appetite. No strength. Skin blemishes always embarrassed me. Aches and pains coursed through my body. I wanted to restore my health and live. What was I to do? . . . happily the day came and I found the right road to Health when a friend recommended S.S.S."

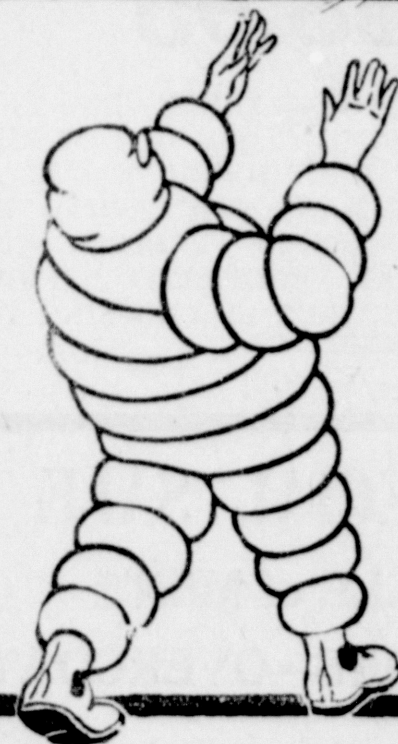

You may be one of the thousands with a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments! It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness—and friends will follow.

Covering them with a revolver. Glenn ordered the men back to work. The foreman had seen them hanging around the railroad construction camp a few miles below. On inquiry, he had learned—with considerable difficulty—that Douglas had offered them double pay for quitting the job without notice and coming over to the railroad crew.

At this juncture, the men, who had been talking in separate groups, suddenly united and moved in a body towards Glenn and the foreman.

"Well," Glenn said curtly, "what's the trouble?"

One man stepped out a little from the others as spokesman. "We're offered double pay over to the railroad construction camp if we quit tonight—right now in fact—and we're quittin', that's all."

"You haven't stopped to consider, have you?" Glenn suggested quietly, "that they're only hiring you to try to cripple the work here? When they're through with you in a few days—or at most a few weeks—they'll kick you out like dogs!"

The men only shook their heads, sullenly unimpressed. "We've done got our minds made up," the spokesman said laconically. "It ain't no use wastin' words."

PENN.
Girl
Gains Weight
Amazingly

NATURE controls all the functions of our digestive organs save one. We control that; and a lot of trouble it causes.

Children suffer when they don't observe regular bowel habits. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. A host of ailments; biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite follow if we neglect this warning that a child's bowels need help.

In such cases, California Fig Syrup never fails to help by the prompt opening of clogged intestines. The first spoonful does that; and relieves the common symptoms of constipation. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak stomach and bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. In a few days, a child is well, happy and bright again.

The way children improve when California Fig Syrup is used is the best proof of its merit. Here's an example: Mrs. Lillie Frank, 5822 Ludlow St., Philadelphia, says: "Phyllis was bothered with constipation several years ago and I decided to give her California Fig Syrup. It made such a difference in her that I have used it since then for every little upset. It helps her digestion; regulates her bowels; keeps her strong and energetic. I am sure it is one thing that is helping her gain weight at such a wonderful rate now."

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the word California.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW
By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves . . . the lure of a graceful, modern figure . . . don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commendable—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

ON BEING "BLUE"

MY favorite color is blue—but being blue is not my favorite mood, or feeling!

I have no idea how, or why, the "Blues" originated. But I do know we all have them at some time or other. I had them today, until I went out upon the street and saw something that completely drove them away. I saw a young woman coming down the street on crutches—with but a single leg. There wasn't a trace of unhappiness or complaint in that face of hers.

It takes a little instance like this one to bring to mind how fortunate we are, and how greatly we are blessed.

Business is one of the surest cures for the "Blues." To learn the knack of working through should be one of the first of all things learned. A busy mind, or busy hands, or feet running useful errands, leave no time for the "Blues" to enter.

So, you see, it is possible for you to make a short spell of these grey hours. On the other hand, perhaps it is not a bad thing for these dark days to come now and then. They help to background the happier days when they arrive. The main thing is not to allow oneself to think that everything is going to the bow-wows when a rift appears!

We are all creatures of moods. We are made up of them. And some are not such very happy ones at that. That's one reason why none of us are good companions to the best of those whom we love—all the time.

We are all filled with urges and hungers. They are forever cropping out. Many of them are strange and mysterious to us. Most of them need interpreting. Often, when they come in "drives," as I might say, they confuse and disturb us. Then it is "a feller needs a friend!"

But if that friend isn't near, then there is a friend who is able to help—perhaps that friend may be yourself!

UNRECOGNIZED

"I knew him when he was a lad,"
The gossip whispered of the man.
"I knew him when no coat he had,
And when to work he first began.
I knew him in the long ago,
He used to shovel off our snow."

Another said: "I knew him when He drove a wagon through the street.
And well do I remember, then,
He scarcely had enough to eat.
I knew him, running up and down
On errands in our little town."

Fame heard the gossips and replied:
"You knew a boy of long ago,
A shivering lad who worked outside,
And from your pathway shoveled
snow.
All that you knew, as you declare,
Was that he had no coat to wear."

"You didn't know the man at all.
You never guessed the fame he'd win.
That ragged coat which you recall
Shut from your view the heart within.
And that poor boy of long ago
Is now the man you didn't know."

UNIVERSAL METAL

Jeffries Visions New Alloy, Hard
As Steel, Rustless, Light
In Weight.

A metal harder than a steel knife blade, stronger than the steel wires used for deep-sea soundings, as rustless as gold or platinum, and as light as aluminum not only would be a great boon to modern industrial civilization, but it is likely to be supplied, according to Dr. Zay Jeffries, president of the American Society for Steel Treatment.

Even now, metallurgists can obtain almost any single property that they want by selecting some metal, says Popular Science Monthly.
Chromium and the new alloy called carbonyl are very hard. Vanadium steel and other alloys are strong and tough. Tungsten and osmium are exceedingly heavy. Aluminum,

Little Jack
Rabbit

By David Cory

On seeing that the great stone wall blocked up the narrow space between the mountains, the Little Jack Rabbit, in quest of the Flower of Youth, as I mentioned in the last story, gave a sigh. "I fear this is the end of our journey," he said to Dapple Gray.

Although for the moment the little rabbit had forgotten all about the key, he hadn't lost it, which was more important, and after carefully looking up and down the surface of the stone wall, he suddenly came across a tiny keyhole. The little golden key matched the lock and the next moment a small door swung slowly open, disclosing a tiny casket. Right there on a shelf stood a beautiful crystal vase on which was printed in gold letters:

"I am the vase for the Flower of Youth.
Fill me with water as pure as Truth."

With trembling paw the half frightened little bunny gently lifted
the beautiful vase from the shelf.
Whereupon the closet door slowly swung to. With a click, the golden key turned itself in the lock. But when the little bunny sought to take it out, it stuck fast.

"Take the vase and leave the key.
Mount your horse and follow me.
But fill the vase with water first.
That the Flower of Youth may feel no thirst."

sang a sweet bird's voice as up the mountain side came the sun, and the sky grew purple and pink.

Filling the vase in the little brook,
the bunny boy again mounted Dapple Gray and followed a pretty blue bird, who led him to a beautiful forest, where already the morning sun was twinkling through the leafy treetops, and the birds were singing amid the branches. On and on flew the bird, and on and on trotted Dapple Gray, and after a while, and many a mile, and a sigh and a smile,
they stopped beside a small hut.
In the doorway sat an old man,
stroking his long white beard.
"Twitter, twitter! Old man gray,
How grows the Flower of Youth today?"

Slowly the old man looked up. No doubt he inwardly marveled at seeing a rabbit on horseback. But wisdom comes with age, and again stroking his long white beard, he showed no surprise.

"Pray lead us to the Flower of Youth," twittered the blue bird.

Reaching for his cane, the old man arose and hobbled slowly around to the rear of his humble hut. There, in a small clearing, in a well kept bed, grew the most beautiful flower the little bunny had ever seen. It was pure white, with crimson leaves.

"For every blossom I pluck another grows in its place," cried the old man. "But he to whom I give it must first promise that it is for a loved one."

"It is for my dear Uncle Lucky," cried the little rabbit. "He is growing old and feeble. I would have him grow young again!"

"The blossom is yours," answered
the old man. "Uncle Lucky, the dear old gentleman rabbit, shall ever live in the hearts of the children!"

magnesium, and the still newer beryllium are very light. Nickel, tantalum, and other metals are good resisters of corrosion. What Dr.
Jeffries hopes for is to find one metal with all these characteristics or with most of them.

Probably the future universal metal, component for nearly all metallurgical uses, will be an alloy. The properties of the pure metallic elements are apt to be unchangeable.
Mixtures and alloys mean possibilities of useful adulteration. In the aluminum alloy, duralumin, the metal now so largely used for aircraft, small additions of copper and other metals make the aluminum,
which in its pure state is quite soft,
as hard and strong as many kinds of steel. Meanwhile, the lightness of the aluminum is retained.

GIRAFFES TIE UP TELEGRAPH

Frequent breaks in African telegraph wires are caused by giraffes running into them, according to a recently returned big-game hunter, says Popular Science Monthly. The height attained by many giraffes places the wires well within their reach; the tallest specimen ever shot measured nineteen feet.

APPEAR AT CABINET MEETING

President Hoover departed from precedent when he permitted Joseph P. Cotton (left), undersecretary of state, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, to take seats at the regular cabinet meeting usually occupied by Secretaries Stimson and Adams. The latter are enroute to the London naval conference.

GYPSY HISTORY
By Mary Graham Bonner

The Little Black Clock and John
and Peggy road along on their camel in the days when the world was very new and followed the first gypsies.

Ahead of them was quite a procession of camels and people, with tents and other belongings.

"These people," said the Little Black Clock, "are never long in one place." They put up their tents and stay for awhile and then they think they will find more food or more pleasant surroundings further on,
so they move again.

"They do not travel very far in a day, but they can stop almost anywhere as no one expects them to arrive at a certain time or by a certain train, as we expect people in our time."

"They have been camping like this awhile, and before long they will land in the country we now know
as Egypt."

"There they will settle down, and because the land will be called Egypt
they will be called Egyptians, just as people now are called after the names of the countries in which they live."

"But because they have wandered as they have, camping here, camping there, they will be given the name of gypsies, too."

"In fact the word gypsy comes from the word Egyptian and these very first gypsies or all were named after the people who wandered into Egypt, camping along the road as they went, and taking a long, long time about it."

"Now when people are wanderers
they are called gypsies."

Austria Imports
Teeth, Dried Bugs

Vienna (AP)—Two tons of human hair formed one of the items among the imports into Austria in the last fiscal year. Much unsatisfied curiosity has been roused as to what it could be used for in these days of close crops.

Another item was artificial teeth,
of which almost exactly the same weight came from abroad. Dentistry has reached a high state of development here, so no surprise is caused by this quantity.

Nearly 50 pounds of dried insects came in for museums.

in which to live we call them gypsies.

"But this was the beginning of their name, and the beginning of their history!"

Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day
Those Agonising Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place.
It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time, and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or various veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. By applying night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

ROYALTY LIKES
HOLIDAYS, TOO

Many Visit France Incognito During Summer; Prince Enjoys Long Week-Ends.

By J. Edward Angly

Paris (AP).—A holiday in republican France has the same fascination for kings and other royalty as for the millions of untitled trippers who breeze into Paris from all the ends of the earth. France has seen plenty of royal personages this year. Most of them left their rank at home and went about "incognito," for a rest or a good time.

The Prince of Wales made his regular summer visit to Le Touquet, his favorite resort. He left the whole St. James palace retinue behind, arriving in his own blue airplane, accompanied only by his pilot. He put up at the villa of a friend and played two rounds of golf a day over a long English week-end—Friday to Tuesday afternoon. At night he visited the casino, and his social calls were confined to a visit with a French peasantwoman, at whose farm house he was billeted more than once during the war.

The king of Spain paid a similar brief visit to Paris, staying at a hotel. He visited President Doumergue for a few moments, and gave one dinner at his embassy. Otherwise he went about with no ceremony, enjoying himself as might any gentleman of his tastes on a holiday in the French capital, dining in restaurants and strolling occasionally along the shopping streets.

Things were different for the young Sultan of Morocco. His grand vizier, a wise old man, was ever at his elbow, the two of them clad from head to foot in the flowing white of their country and their rank, followed always by attendants. The sultan spent some time in the nineteenth-century quiet of Vichy, toured industrial districts by motor, visited Marshal Lyautey, who made Morocco what it is today, and just before embarking had a conference at Marseilles with the French Resident General in Morocco. A serious young man, the sultan!

The king of Annam hid himself to the seashore as soon as he stepped from his ship, and spent the summer taking things easy.

The Aga Khan, who is the religious head of hundreds of thousands in India, was in Paris while the season went on, but after the Grand Prix with his string of racehorses moved to Deauville, he followed them. He has a villa there.

Many Indian maharajahs and princelings splashed about on the beaches at Deauville, Paris-Plage and Biarritz waiting for the winter to bring more comfortable weather in their own bounteous balliwicks.

The king of Egypt, after a few days of the formalities, put aside his title and turned to "incognito." It was as easy as switching on an electric light, and perhaps as illuminating, for a king cannot see so much when he is king as he can when he is just a man.

Prince and Princess Eric of Denmark travelled through France like any pair of tourists, without even getting their names in the papers. That is more than Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin or Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney could do.

As royalty from warm-weather countries comes to France in summer, so those from damp and cold climates arrive in the winter.

He Coughed For Two Years Swore Off

After coughing for two years almost continuously a man of considerable means got thin and tired and worn out, made his will, and was ready to quit the big game of life.

A friend spoke to him about Broncholine Emulsion and now life to him is very sweet indeed.

That's the kind of cough that is put out of business with amazing speed when the cougher is wise to Broncholine Emulsion.

Tough old coughs—persistent coughs—coughs that hang on and rob people of their sleep—those are the kind of coughs Broncholine likes to tackle.

Many times such coughs linger after the Grippe or a heavy cold, and if you have one or know of anyone who has one keep Broncholine Emulsion in mind.

It isn't just a cheap sweet cough syrup—it's the best cough remedy—and the best is never cheap. People's Drug Store and dealers everywhere can supply you. Adv.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes' Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

When you go to bed dog-tired and still can't sleep and you rise in the morning more tired than when you went to bed, it's a sign you're acid. Excess acid formed in the stomach as a result of your unnatural eating habits, causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up poisonous putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal which saps our strength and vitality and so taxes our nerves that we can't sleep at night or work efficiently during the day.

Magnesia Oxids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

5-Day Acid Test
To ascertain just how you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxids from the People's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal for a few days and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If you don't get more than amazing results, return the balance of the Oxids to the druggist and he will refund the purchase price promptly and in full.

OUT, IT'S ANKLE LENGTH

By Hazel Reavis

Paris—The Rue de la Paix's compense is not the least bit ruffled by word that New York women have organized against long skirts.

On the contrary, nothing could please the dressmakers more.

"The harder they fight the more tangled in the net they'll become," Captain Molyneux said with a chuckle.

He didn't explain what metaphor
he had in mind. Perhaps it was fish and perhaps it was lions.

Anyway as far as long skirts for evening wear are concerned it's too late to talk about it, in the view of Parisians.

Some things are. And one of them is ankle length skirts for evening.

PAL SERVES AS STIMSON'S AIDE

Friend Who Took Early Morn-

life, modeled on a Munich "beer-orium," by the way, opened the roof for festivities with which the infant 1930 was welcomed. Hobo-hemia is going Broadway. Growing up.

The opening constituted the initiation of Paris' first and only all-the-year-round roof garden.

There are places where you can sit on the roof and drink in summer time. But heretofore nobody has wanted to sit on the roof between October and May.

The new summer and winter garden is Paris' latest proof that bohemians are just as saleable as midnight cabarets or any other form of amusement.

So many people flock to Mont-parnasse to see the artists that you can't find the artists for the spectators. One cafe crowds another and all of them make money.
All round space being taken, the cafes are growing skyward.

The Munich beerorium, which takes its name from a book about Montparnasse by Sisley Huddles-ton, is a four level bedlam now.
They dance in the basement, gabble
and guzzle on the first and maza-nine floors and dance, gabble and guzzle on the glassed in roof.

About Theatres

There is one theatre in Paris,
and only one that I know of,
where long-legged men can sit comfortably through a show. It is Ganna Walska's Champs Elysees show house, where modern is as modern does and the spectators can cross their knees in peace.

Other playhouses, newer and reputedly the last thought in comfort, disregard the length of leg of the modern male. Perhaps their French designers were short legged men.
More likely the box office was short sighted.

to London as his personal aide at the conference on naval limitation.

For his right hand man at the sessions on armament reduction
Mr. Stimson has chosen Arthur Wilson Page, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, former editor of World's Work, and son of the late Walter Hines Page, ambassador to Great Britain in the Wilson administration.

Stimson and Page are neighbors near Huntington, L. I. Their country homes are half a mile apart,
and both find in horsemanship
their principal recreation.

When both were in private life they rode their saddle horses in each other's company for an hour in the early morning, and often they have ridden to hounds in the West Hills hunt, organized by Colonel Stimson among owners of country places on Long Island's north shore.

But it was more than neighborly affection that prompted Stimson to designate Page as his aide when he was named a United States
delegate to the London conference.

Page, his friends say, will be an invaluable assistant because of his wide contacts and his genius for knowing where and how to gather needed information quickly.

The story is told that when the world war broke out in 1914 an issue of World's Work was ready or the presses. Page, who had just become editor of the magazine, ordered the issue withdrawn and set about at once to publish in its stead a number devoted entirely to the war.

Nobody in the United States
new very accurately the size or administrative personnel of Europe's armies, and even the geography of the war zone was sketchily charted
in most maps.

But within a fortnight Page had assembled a mass of reliable data on the conflicting powers and their military resources, and had prepared maps which set forth in detail the nature of the regions across which had been flung in haste the western and eastern fronts.

He sent to the presses a "war

manual" edition of World's Work which became a standard of accepted authority on the locale and physical background of the war.

Page, now in his middle forties, came from Harvard in 1905 to the staff of World's Work, of which his father was founder and editor.

When Page senior was made ambassador to Britain in 1913, Arthur became editor.

In the years that followed he went often to London, gaining among his father's friends a wide acquaintance with European diplomats and learning intimately of international affairs.

He joined the propaganda service
of the United States government when America entered the war, and at the armistice was a captain on the United States military staff in Paris.

After his father's death he was the only remaining member of his family in the publishing firm of Doubleday Page, and he relinquished his interests in it in 1926

to become vice president in charge of information for the A. T. & T.
He also is president of the Bell
Securities company, a subsidiary.

By coincidence a brother, Frank Page, who served under Herbert Hoover on the American Relief commission abroad, is a vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, rival communications corporation.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould

One of the strongest outlooks for 1930 will be an American Davis Cup campaign without Bill Tilden.

For the first time in ten years, for the first time since he and Little Bill Johnston swept the Australians off the tennis peak in 1920, the tall Philadelphia artist will be missing from one of the most colorful of all international scrambles. Tilden will not quit altogether. He told me last year he intended to play tournament tennis as long as they would accept the entry of a doddering old man. He will campaign at home as well as abroad this year.

A decade of brilliant competition has inspired Big Bill to flights with his typewriter. In American Lawn

Tennis he writes:

"Ten years is a short time in a man's life. I was 26 when I first won the (National) Championship, almost an old man as athletes go. Today, at 36, I am considered almost a marvel of antiquity, regarded somewhat like the ruins of Pompeii or the Great Wall of China. Yet over that decade what has actually happened?

"It is not age or physical decay that has hit me, or that has hit any champion of sport who is under 40 or 45. Never in my life have I been as fit physically and mentally as during the past season. A man of 36 is not seriously slowing up physically, but a champion in any sport who has stood at or near the top for a decade, a target for all to shoot at, inevitably must feel and fall before the mental pressure of his position.

"Ten years ago I was a tennis player of crude game, incomplete experience, uncertain physical reserve and, above all, an overwhelming will to win. Over the crudities of the game, lack of experience or physical reserve, this 'will to win' rose in its might and swept me to victory. . . . The will to win, ambition, call it what you will, would drive me on above handicaps and even above better players. It is the will to win that makes champions like Bobby Jones, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey and Henri Cochet. It is its loss that causes their downfall.

"I retired my first national championship trophy in 1922 when I won my third title. When that tournament ended I felt that I had done all that there was to do in tennis. Then came the loss of the end of my second finger and with it the challenge to my tennis. Was I through as a tennis player? Every one believed I was. So did I but it was a challenge that could not go unanswered. Within me rose once more the wild urge of the will to win. This new urge carried me two years. The rise of the French stars and their magnificent game, which in its superiority to our style was a challenge to my tennis intelligence, is all that has kept me in tennis for the past four years—that and the partnership and friendship of my pal—Frank Hunter."

Tilden pays a magnificent tribute to his French rivals when he writes that even if he regained his old form and will to win, "it would no longer lead the world as it once did, for in Lacoste and Cochet one finds players who at their best are greater than I ever was." Then he adds:

"I have gone back as far as they have gone ahead. Today is required a big thing to light within me once more the flaming will to win. A ham has only so much competitive athletics in him and I have played mine. That is why I am definitely retiring from any American official team, Davis Cup or otherwise, because no longer will my will to win rise above the petty annoyances that official interference with the playing policy forces on the players at the moment of their greatest trial."

Thus does Tilden in a parting shot pay his respects to his critics and antagonists of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

About New York

By Richard Massock

New York.—Plagiarism suits, like menacing spectres, hover over theaters in which dramatic hits settle down for a long stay.

They are ever ready with clutching fingers to make passes at the play's profits.

It may not be significant, but the accusation of theft is always made against the most successful dramas. After months of extraordinary prosperity, a play is quite likely to incur one of these suits.

The aggrieved and offended playwright, usually obscure, who files a legal hue and cry about stolen ideas generally points out that he submitted a similar play to the accused producer, or to someone who might have peddled the plot.

In most instances, perhaps, the complainant is sincere, falling only, if at all, in giving thought before hand to the possibility that two different brains might have similar children; that identical ideas might be born in different minds at about the same time.

The fear of plagiarism suits haunts the hit producers because, even when the suit is unlikely to succeed, the cost of answering charges in court is considerable.

Plays' Origin Disputed

Last season Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" was claimed as the kidnapped work of a young woman who once sent a play to somebody. This season R. C. Sher-riff's stirring war play, "Journey's End," is involved in a charge of piracy.

And this despite the rather widely known story of its origin. According to this story, Sheriff, an insurance appraiser in an English town, first intended to write his war diary into a novel.

There is no indication that he heard of the competition it soon would have from other war novels, but at any rate he finally wrote "Journey's End" for the Christmas production of the Kingston Rowing club, a Surrey group to which he belonged.

The amateurs found, however, that it was too much for them to handle. Sheriff then sent the manuscript to a play broker and it made the rounds of the London producing offices before the acceptance that preceded Gilbert Miller's production of it in New York.

Flashing the News

Six radio operators waiting in the New York Times office throughout Friday, November 29. They had heard that Commander Byrd had started on his flight over the South Pole.

Ordinarily the six work in three shifts of two men each, but they all wanted to be in on the history-making message, so they stayed with head-phones clamped to their ears, "talking" to Little America in relays through the Byrd base ship, the "Eleanor Bolling," at Dunedin, New Zealand.

It took five months for word of Admiral Peary's North Pole discovery to reach New York but, thanks to the radio, only a third of a day for the Times to hear about Byrd's flight.

The Byrd plane circled the pole between 8:55 and 9:25 a. m. New York time, and the six operators in Manhattan got the news at 5:23 p. m. They might have heard from the plane direct and instantaneously had not daylight formed a curtain through which the short-wave signals could not penetrate.

By Richard Massock

New York.—Fifth avenue department stores already have begun hanging holly in the aisles as a gentle hint that Christmas is not far off.

If Christmas comes, the new year must be only about a week behind. It may not be amiss, therefore, to suggest that less than a month remains if certain customs are to be perpetuated this year.

Thus if 1929 hopes to keep up the record of the past and round out a full life, it hereby is warned that it has only a few weeks left:

For Texas Guinan to reopen her night club.

For someone to succeed Tunney (or is it Dempsey?).

For the further advancement of television.

For Herbert Hoover to take up presidential yachting.

For the subway company to attempt to increase the five cent fare.

For Mayor Walker to make a trip somewhere.

For the tearing up of another New York street.

For the announcement of another "world's highest building."

For a new idol to replace Rudy Vallee.

For the publication of Lindbergh's pictures.

For the blaze to tire of Harlem and Hoboken and find a new diversion.

For the Theater Guild to produce a George Bernard Shaw or Eugene O'Neill play.

For Peggy Joyce to be reported contemplating matrimony.

For some prominent person to bewail conditions in the theater.

For critics of the short skirt to get accustomed to the long ones.

For other critics to deride the talkies.

And for authors to write their January mystery stories.

Sign in front of a "fashionable little movie theater (cinema to the patrons):" "I. A. M. A. Charles Spencer Chaplin Comedy."

Commercial Economy

When Miss Gertrude Lawrence presented this reporter with a handful of paper matches in the wings of the Empire theater the other day, it was no trifling gift, but a gesture of real generosity. For one chain of cigar stores has ceased giving away books of matches with 13-cent cigarettes unless the customers ask for them.

For several years it has been a city-wide custom to hand out the matches. But at 13 cents a package, the margin of profit on the cigarettes became too narrow.

The match-book covers invariably contain advertising, paid for, of course, by the advertisers. But even so, the matches cost the dealers who distribute them about one-third of a cent a packet.

English

Returning backstage, we find the three L's of Piccadilly, London—Lawrence, Laye and Lillie—all in New York.

Miss Lawrence, who is starred in "Candle Light," her first play hereabouts, and Miss Beatrice Lillie, now in vaudeville, first came to Manhattan in 1924 with "Charlot's Revue" and stayed for other musical shows. Evelyn Laye is the new darling of "Bitter Sweet."

Naturally enough, all three are friendly in a compatriotic way. At Miss Laye's first appearance here, only one seat remained vacant. It was reserved for Miss Lawrence, who dropped in at 11 o'clock, after her own performance.

New York—Seen about town: Motorcycle cop on duty in lobby of Fifth avenue apartment building where Police Commissioner Whalen lives.

Coatless Broadway beaux displaying gaudy suspenders, called braces in tony avenue shops. Few, however, wear the red, orange and black shirts that dazzle window-shoppers.

A millionaire real estate operator, buying vegetables for his table and carrying them home in a market-basket.

Ice cream peddlers on almost every corner in the Wall street sector. Hot-dog and pink-drink carts everywhere else that office-boys and messengers gather.

A bearded and tattered old man shambling up Broadway; he might have doubled for Emil Jannings in "The Way of All Flesh."

Donald Ogden Stewart, in from the country for a day and revealing the fraud in Corey Ford's "Salt Water Taffy." The nautical pictures were not taken aboard ship, but in Neysa McMein's studio. Now that "Holiday" is closed because the star, Hope Williams, wanted a rest, Stewart, who played in it, is writing a drama, but not, he hastens to add, for himself to act in.

Innovations

The new telephone directory is out in five volumes, Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Suburban, and new racks have already been brought out by the furniture stores to hold them.

The Cohens still are the most numerous, there being more than 2,000 listed in the Manhattan directory and some 1,500 in the Bronx, not counting the Cohns, Kohns, Kohnes and Kanes.

Incidentally, the practice of adapting a fictitious name full of Z's in order to get one's name listed at the end of the book is due to the virtual impossibility of a personal name heading the list.

The Manhattan directory begins with "AAA, Hotel Majestic," the letters standing for the American Automobile association. The next is "AAAA, Inc., whatever that is, on Nineteenth street, and the third name is AAAI Real Estate corporation." The first surname does not appear until column four is reached. It is "Peter Aegenas."

NEVADA SOLON RIDES HORSES

Senator Tasker L. Oddie Joins Borah At Horseback Riding Every Morning.

By Herbert Plummer
Washington—Bill Borah will not be the only United States senator found on the horse paths at Rock Creek park early every morning from now on.

For Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada is again in the saddle.

Christmas morning Senator Oddie was summoned to the stables at his hotel in Washington. A steward directed him to a stall where he saw a magnificent hunter.

"Looks like the old boy I saw take that wide jump down at Norfolk last month," he remarked.

"So it does, sir," said the steward. The senator stood around for a few moments admiring the animal. His gaze strayed to the top of the stall. There he read his name and just below, that of the horse—Lumberjack. He turned to the smiling steward, who said:

"Mrs. Oddie, sir, bids me wish you a merry Christmas, and hopes that he suits you."

Enthusiastic
It wasn't long before the senator was on Lumberjack in Rock Creek park. By the time he had returned to the hotel stables his enthusiasm was boundless.

Now he has arranged that two hours of every day will be spent astride Lumberjack. Winter and summer, regardless of the weather, he will ride from 8 to 10 o'clock every morning.

Senator Oddie is an expert horseman, although he has not ridden regularly for years. When 16 years old he was a cowpuncher in Nebraska and chasing wild mustangs for diversion. He wouldn't attempt to say how many mustangs he has broken in, for there are too many. For three years before going to Nebraska the senator was a member of a cavalry troop in New Jersey, and had the reputation of being one of the roughest riders in the outfit.

He has hunted for gold all over Nevada on horseback, although with the advent of the automobile he substituted a stripped car for his horse. He could cover more ground in less time by motor.

To Protect Health
Lumberjack's master looks to him to see that he keeps fit as he goes about being a United States senator. It was poor health that caused him to quit the east for the west during his youth, and since he has guarded his health carefully.

He, Oddie's gift to her husband is a thoroughbred. He was purchased from the stables of one of the oldest families in Virginia, and has won innumerable prizes as a hunter and jumper.

Incidentally, Lumberjack's arrival at the Wardman Park stables makes the third mount of distinguished men to be quartered there.

Secretary Stimson's horse is there, and Senator Borah keeps his charger in a stall adjacent to that of Lumberjack's.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Herbert Plummer

Washington—If cotton had been worth anything down south back in 1898, then handsome, soft voiced and congenial Col. Campbell B. Hodges would not be at the White House today as military aide to the president.

But, at the turn of the century, cotton in Louisiana brought only 4 cents a pound. Times were hard. Money was scarce in the Hodges family. And as a result the career of Colonel Hodges shaped itself along lines entirely different from what he had planned.

He had his eye on the United States naval academy. Dewey was the hero of the hour as a result of his feat in Manila Bay. Battleships and anything connected with the navy were all people could talk about. Young Hodges set about to get an appointment to Annapolis. Inquiry of his representative in congress revealed that there were no vacancies at Annapolis, but if he desired an appointment to West Point instead it could be arranged. The offer was declined with thanks. It was the navy or nothing for him.

Some time later Hodges and his father met the representative near their home. He told them that he had made the appointment despite the refusal, and that it would stand until December of that year in the event Hodges changed his mind.

Hard Times
Riding home that afternoon, father and son passed many cotton fields. Their conversation was mainly on one topic—how hard times were. Before they had reached home young Hodges' mind was made up. He would forget the navy and go to West Point.

In a few days he left the south and entered a preparatory school in the east to prepare for the entrance examinations. In June of 1899 he was enrolled as a cadet.

Much the same is true of President Hoover's naval aide—Capt. Allen Buchanan—in reverse order. Captain Buchanan wanted an appointment to West Point when he decided on making the service his career, but was unable to secure one, and wound up by enrolling as a midshipman at Annapolis. Buchanan was graduated from the naval academy the year Hodges entered West Point.

But returning to Colonel Hodges

"I have never regretted my choice," he says, "not once since the first day at West Point." Nor should he, for he has gone high and far in the army since 1899.

Decorated
He wears the Distinguished Service Medal for his service as chief of staff of the 31st division during the world war, and has decorations from Spain and Rumania.

From 1926 to 1929 he was commandant of cadets at the United States military academy. And when Hoover became president he selected Colonel Hodges as his military aide.

Lubricating oil used each year will fill a lake a mile square and two and one-half feet deep.

Veteran Pilot Wants To Live

St. Louis (AP).—Of all aviation's flying heroes, Red Harrigan would rather be the oldest than the greatest.

He has spent between 5,000 and 10,000 hours in the air—Red himself isn't exactly sure—without a serious mishap. He has piloted scores of newly manufactured planes, worth millions of dollars, on baptismal flights without so much as a scratch on their fresh paint.

After nearly 14 years of manipulating every kind of ship, he still gets a thrill from every flight and hopes his days in the air have just begun. Red, christened John J., has been flying since 1916, when he learned to pilot seaplanes in the navy.

Never has he had a part in an accident in which anyone was killed. On the other hand, he piloted the ill-fated dirigible Shenandoah shortly before its last journey. Likewise he planned a trip to Honolulu, only to have the flight thwarted at the last minute, about the time so many aviators lost their lives trying to cross the Pacific.

One of the few men in the country who possess official qualifications to pilot any and all kinds of aircraft, Harrigan is known as a "safety first" flier. A ship must be airworthy before he will fly it.

"I would rather be the oldest than the greatest flier."

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is disappearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weakened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause. They do not rely on starvation.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor.

Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

Tells How Fat Men Can Lose Half a Pound a Day

Here's a simple way to get rid of that corporation and quickly feel in both body and mind the joy of living.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

It's the safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded flesh you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.

Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity—It means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot or cold water you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—

that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

As one, once corpulent man remarked—"I feel so energetic that I want to get up with the lark and I'm just as lively as a cricket."

Kruschen Salts is not a purgative or a cathartic, but a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or toxemia its daily use soon means blissful regularity.

Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—last 4 weeks—at People's Drug store or any druggist in the world.

Get That "Kruschen Feeling" It's the Little Daily Dose that does it.

HIGHER POWER CARS AT SHOW

Concealed Improvements Will Feature Approaching Automobile Shows.

New York (AP)—Concealed improvements will mark the 1930 automobile.

Greater engine power, cheaper upkeep and operation and smoother running resulting from developments in internal construction will characterize new models.

Formal introduction of the 1930 car to the public will take place at the national automobile show of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in Grand Central Palace January 4-11.

The trend towards greater horsepower will be reflected by a new twin eight, a greater number of straight eights and advances in engine construction.

Size of cylinder bores has been increased in several; aluminum pistons, duralumin connecting rods and use of new alloys are employed by many engineers; parts most in need of periodic servicing have been made simpler, stronger and more accessible.

A new trend will be the tendency to use pressure lubrication for the piston pins, bearings subject to high loads but ordinarily serviced by oil sprays from the crankcase.

A new type of thermostat, fitted into the radiator hose, will be introduced for keeping water temperature constant and heating the cooling fluid quicker when starting.

Vertical vanes of new type will be used in radiator protectors, many of which will be automatically operated. Windshield cleaners will be heated by batteries to remove sleet and ice and operate across the glass instead of only in front of the driver.

Two-thirds of the plate glass produced each year is used by the automotive industry.

How can you know until you've tried it?

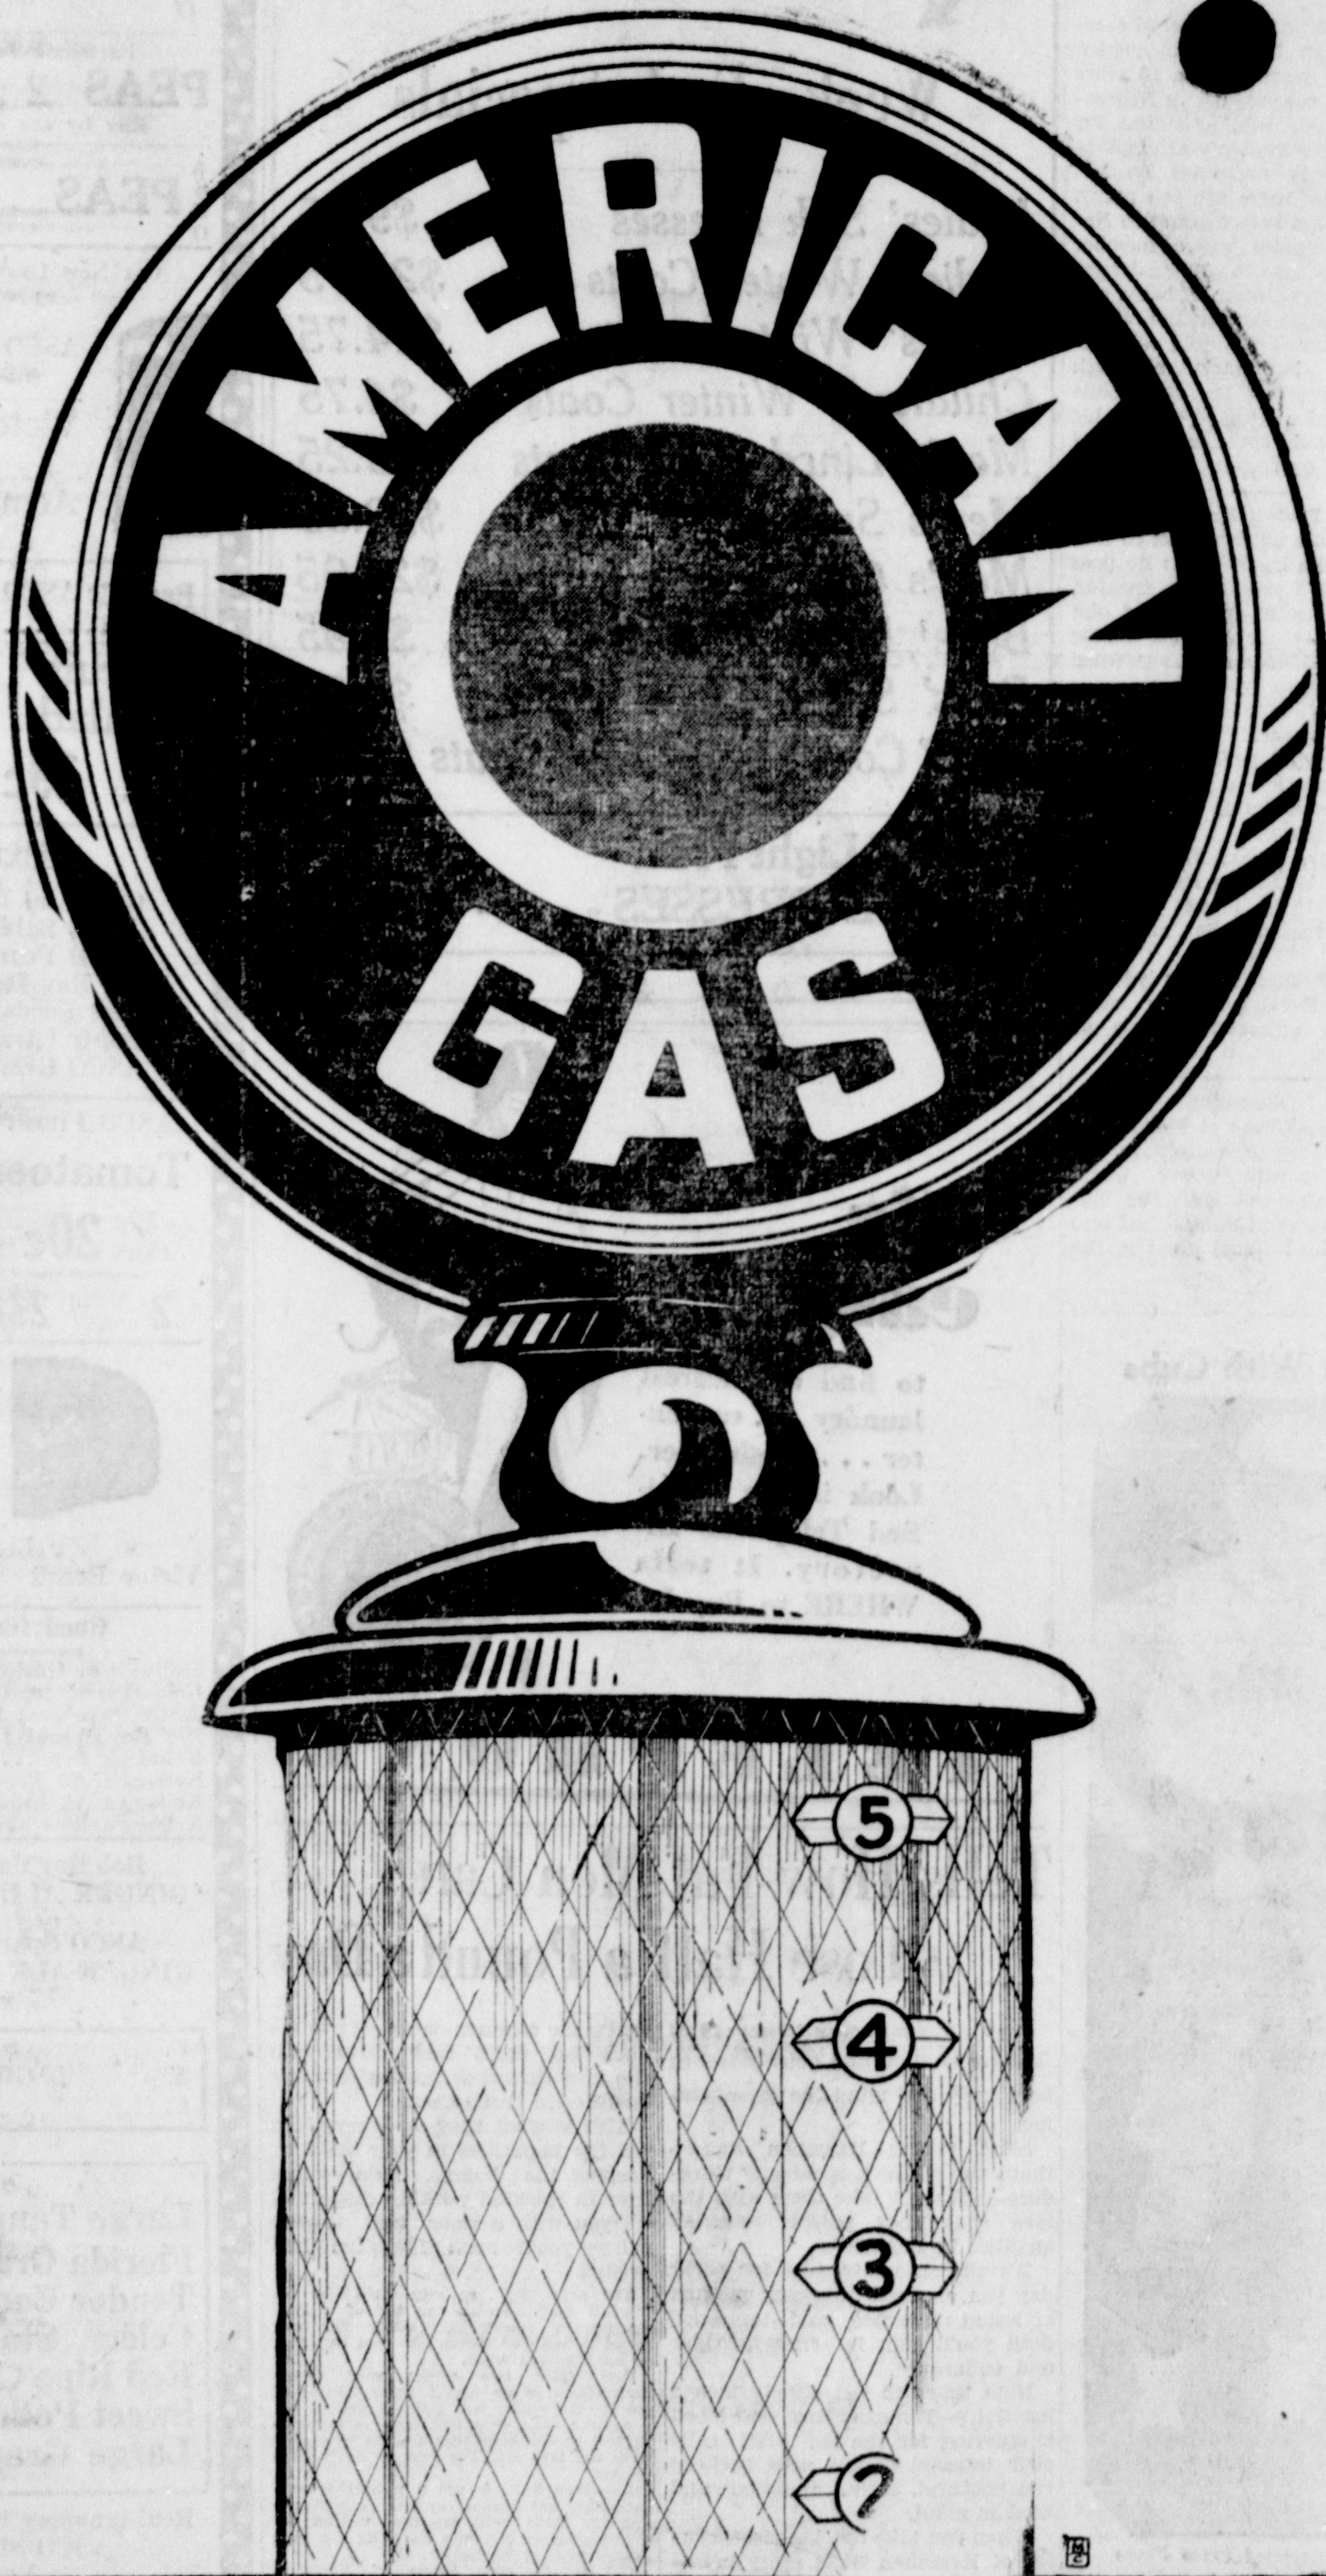

NEWSPAPERS, billboards, radios, magazines--all of them filled with advertising claiming every conceivable merit for dozens of gasolines. They can't all be "best"--they can't all be "most powerful"--they can't all have the "highest anti-knock quality."

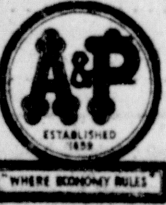

Of course you can't tell until you've tried ORANGE AMERICAN GAS how true is every claim we ever made for it. If you haven't tried it you probably think we're just boasting and we don't want that.

So in fairness to your car and to ORANGE AMERICAN GAS stop at the first Yellow and Black Pump and let this regular-priced gas prove itself. Thousands of motorists who have made the experiment have gone away convinced--that's why you see dozens of new ORANGE AMERICAN GAS pumps being installed every week.

Learn today that there really is something different and better on the gasoline market--ORANGE AMERICAN GAS.
